

Tempe Center For the Arts

Tempe Center for the Arts sponsored by Northern Trust celebrates creativity at the highest levels, drawing visitors as well as regional and national attention. Performances, activities, special events, education and exhibition programs and community outreach promote diversity and inclusion.

Opened in 2007, TCA is home to five public art installations.

Tempe Public Art IN DOWNTOWN TEMPE

Public Art

Since its inception in 1988, the City of Tempe has cultivated a diverse collection of public art pieces incorporated throughout the community. Art installations are designed to complement the natural and built environments, while strengthening a sense of place and community. tempe.gov/PublicArt

Art in Private Development

The Art in Private Development Ordinance of 1991 has beautified the community with privately owned art installations that are accessible to the public. tempe.gov/AIPD

Art in Neighborhoods

Tempe's Marianne Corder Neighborhood Grant Program, overseen by the Neighborhood Services Division, has funded a wide variety of neighborhood art projects. tempe.gov/Neighborhoods

IN FLUX

IN FLUX is a multi-city public art initiative that showcases Arizona artists who create temporary, site-specific installations for vacant spaces. Keep an eye out for IN FLUX projects across Tempe! www.INFLUXAZ.com

Utility Boxes

In partnership with the Downtown Tempe Authority, Tempe Public Art commissions artists to refresh the utility boxes along Mill Avenue and beyond every five years. These pieces showcase Arizona-based artists while creating areas of interest throughout downtown Tempe.
